

BEIJ CHIN 201 Intermediate Chinese II

The Alliance for Global Education China Now: Development, Politics and Social Change Program, Spring 2009

Instructors Hu Huijin and Yuan Mengxi

General Information on the Course

This class is designed for foreign students who have studied Chinese for at least 3 semesters, and have already learned most basic Chinese grammar patterns, with fairly good language skills to function in Chinese.

This class is an intensive course, with 12 hours weekly schedule for 14 weeks, meets 5 days a week. Students are expected to spend 2-3 hours every day, besides the class time, preparing for class, previewing for daily dictation, and doing homework. Only Chinese is allowed to speak in the class. Students will mainly focus on improving the Chinese pronunciation and tones, learning new grammar patterns and practicing with the newly learned grammars and vocabularies during the class hours. Organized in-class activities include daily dictation, memorizing the dialogues, bi-weekly test and oral exercises such as retelling stories, making up dialogues, presentation, skit performances and role plays.

Objectives

This class helps students to strengthen their skills in listening, speaking, reading, and writing, through the in classroom language instructions and after class self-practice. The topics in the textbook are chosen to cover most commonly used daily conversations and some important Chinese cultural and social issues. The class is designed for 14 weeks only; mainly focus on improving students' listening and speaking abilities. Students are expected to learn at least 20 new Chinese words every class day. By the end of the semester, students will be learning about 820 new characters, to recognize and write 900 new words, as well as 260 new grammar patterns. Students should be able to function in Chinese in their daily life with good confidence, and to have fluent conversations with local Chinese people on most common topics, such as talking about Chinese culture, food, Chinese customs and local arts in China. In addition, with using some high level vocabularies, students can also talk about some social issues, such as birth control in China and women's social status in Chinese society, etc.

Preparation:

Before the Chinese class, students are expected to:

- (1) Use the CDs come with the textbook regularly and frequently
- (2) Be familiar with the new vocabularies from the dialogues
- (3) Be able to read and write the new words correctly
- (4) Preview and try to understand all of the grammar patterns from the related chapters
- (5) Memorize the dialogue/chapter assigned by the class instructors
- (6) Complete homework assigned by the teachers

There will be a daily dictation session from Monday to Wednesday in the class.

In Class:

Section 1 & 2, Instructor Hu, Huijin

- (1) There is a daily dictation in the first hour session with vocabulary and key sentences. Students are required to review what they have learned the day before and preview the new lesson. The dictation will be done at the beginning of each day's class. Students are expected to learn how to write both in pinyin and characters.
- (2) The instructor will introduce the new Chinese characters, and give hints to help students to recognize and memorize the new words.
- (3) Retelling the dialogue. Although it might be a bit boring, this traditional-style of Chinese teaching exercise is still considered extremely useful; students should try to memorize the text and learn to retell it with accurate and natural pronunciation.
- (4) Students will learn how to use new words in each dialogue during these two sessions. By using flashcards, students will be asked to read those words and try to use these words to answer questions. The teachers will design different language activities to guide students using the new vocabularies and new learned grammar structures to talk about their daily life, study, and travel experience etc.
- (5) To help students to understand grammars, the teacher designed the following activities for classroom practice: pattern drills, change sentences into certain formats by using the new learned structures, complete phrases or sentences with using the given words and so on. Meanwhile, the teacher will correct students' pronunciations, tones, and grammar mistakes.

Section 3&4, Instructor Yuan, Mengxi

- (1) Students will be required to memorize the paragraph(s) assigned by the class instructors before the class.
- (2) Students will be guided to participate in some classroom activities like describing pictures, Q & A exercises, making up conversations, and performing skits by using keywords and grammars from the text.
- (3) The teacher will correct the mistakes made by students with detailed explanations and more practice. During the 3rd session, students are expected to speaking relatively fluently with correct grammar patterns and good pronunciations and tones.

Daily homework:

- a. Review the recently learned lessons and preview new vocabularies, grammar patterns, and dialogues for next day's class.

- b. Finish the homework in the workbook assigned by the instructors
- c. Practice with the language partners: Role-play, culture experience and useful daily conversations
